I pay a monthly fee for the right to listen to XM Radio and the 100 or so channels it offers. I pay for this service for the simple reason that commercial radio and some public stations have nothing to offer me in way of service. As an example, the other day on KOA Radio here in Denver, I tuned in on my way home from the office. I live approximately 25 miles away from my office, and I wanted some news or comment on the current situation at The University of Colorado. During the 30 minutes I tuned in I heard about 1 minute of weather and traffic, 2 minutes of talk from the personality, 3 minutes of news, the balance of the time was commercial advertisements. This is common on every commercial radio station out there today. XM Radio offers a wide variety of programming and does so to its subscribers without the banter of junk. Do not allow the NAB to get rid of something that benefits someone other than the revenue tills of the commercial stations. COMPETITION IS A GOOD THING. Francis Reed
